VANISHED is an investigation of four vanished icons that persist as powerful ideas. It's a transdisciplinary project with two visual artists, a philosopher, a creative writer, a volcanologist, and a graphic designer. Collectively, they explore what's been lost and consider how we assemble the past through fact, fiction, and myth. Their results are an interconnected collection of new and historic photographs, illustrations, sculpture, and writing.

The Vanished project collaborators would like to thank the following for their support:

- The Office of the President, California State University, Chico
- The Office of Research and Sponsored Programs and the Department of Art and Art History at California State University, Chico
- The Center for Cultural Innovation Investing in Artists grant
- The Tyler School of Art Photography Program at Temple University, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania
